

Abortion in the US post Roe v. Wade

Katie Aszklar

Process

political elections

legal issues

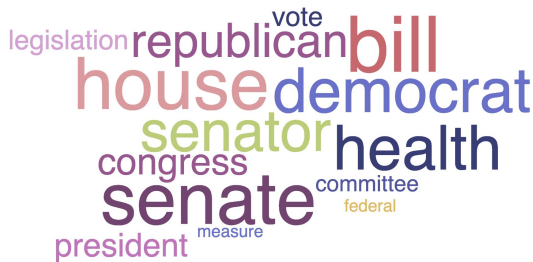

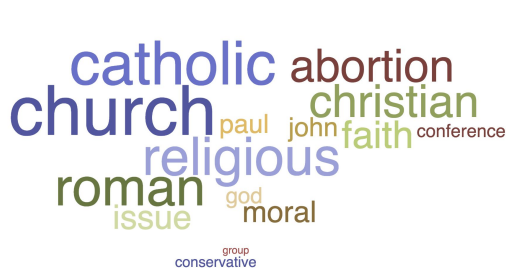

international *

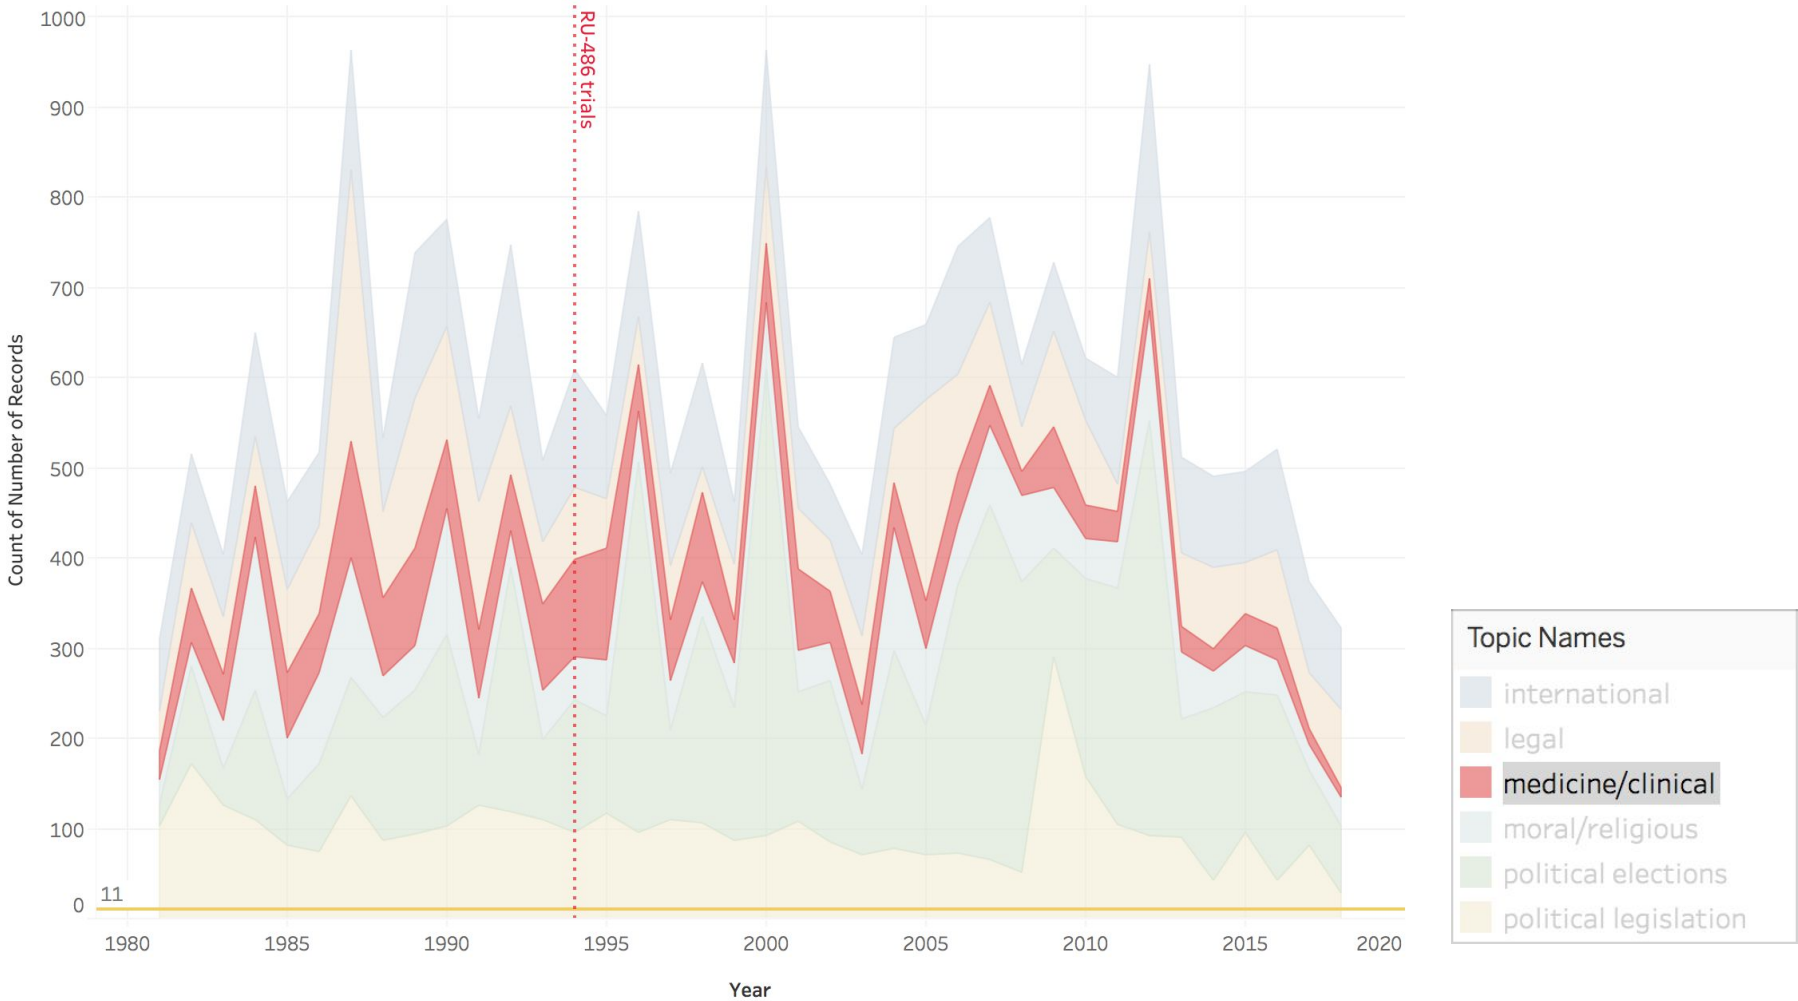

religion

political legislation

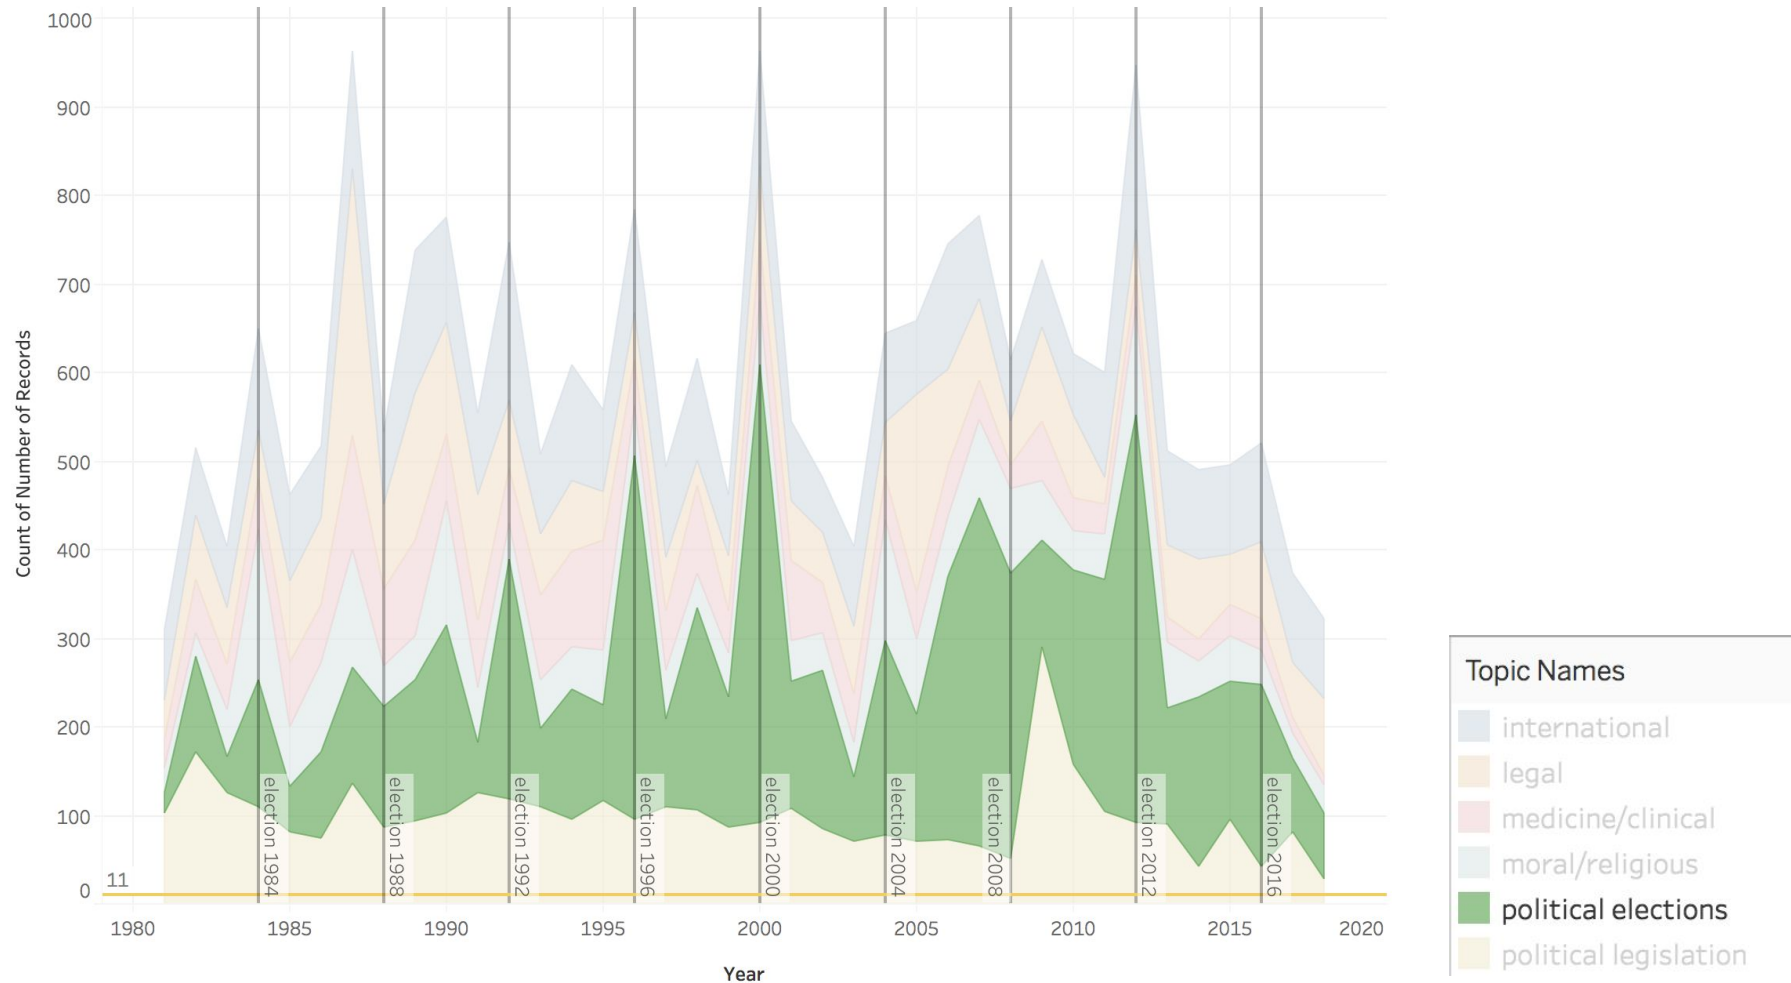

medicine/clinical

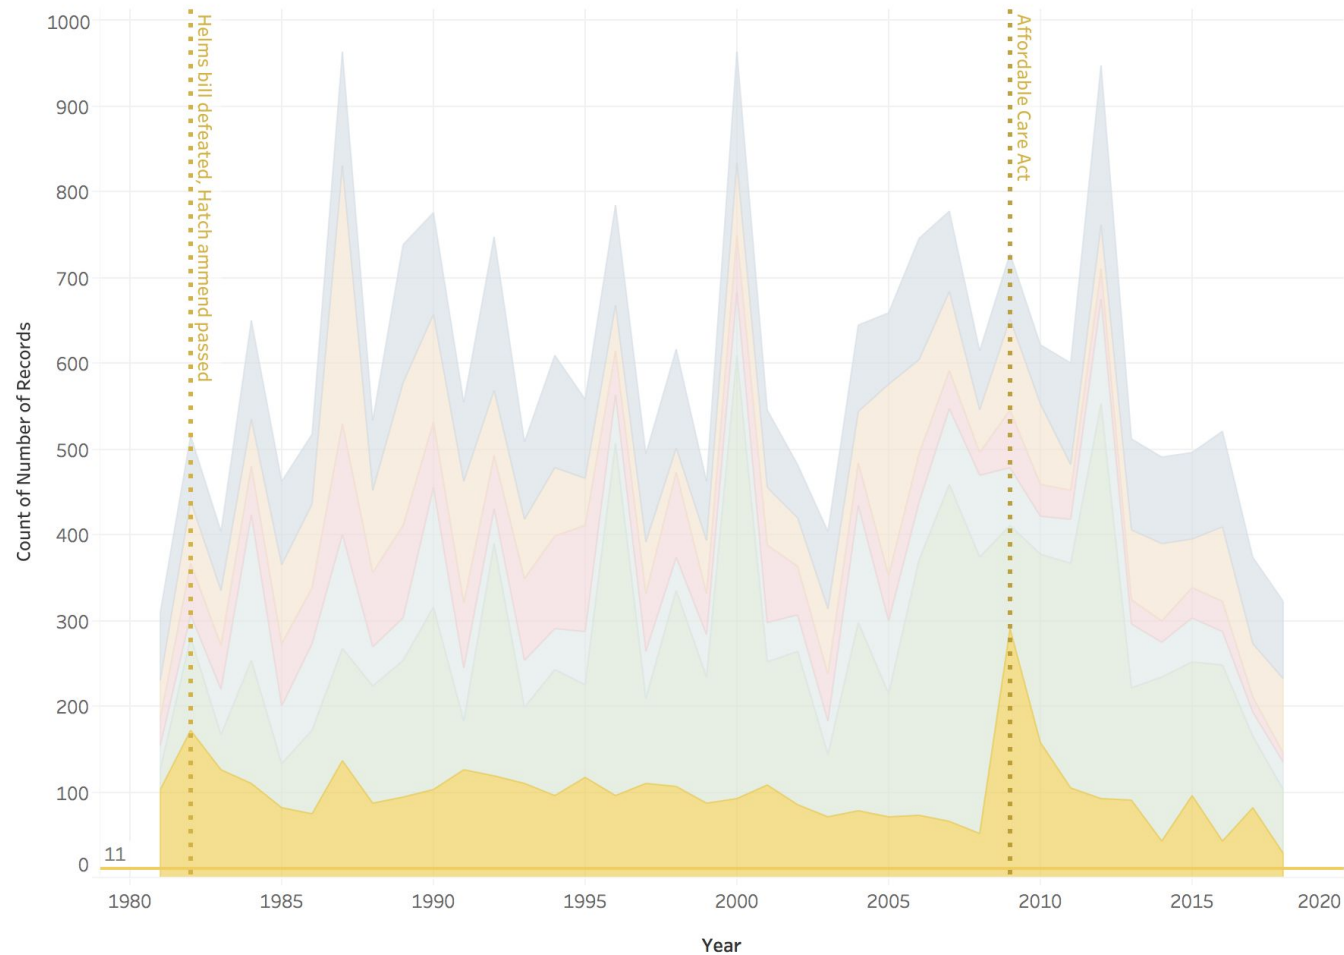

Abortion Topics Over Time

Abortion Topics Over Time

Abortion Topics Over Time

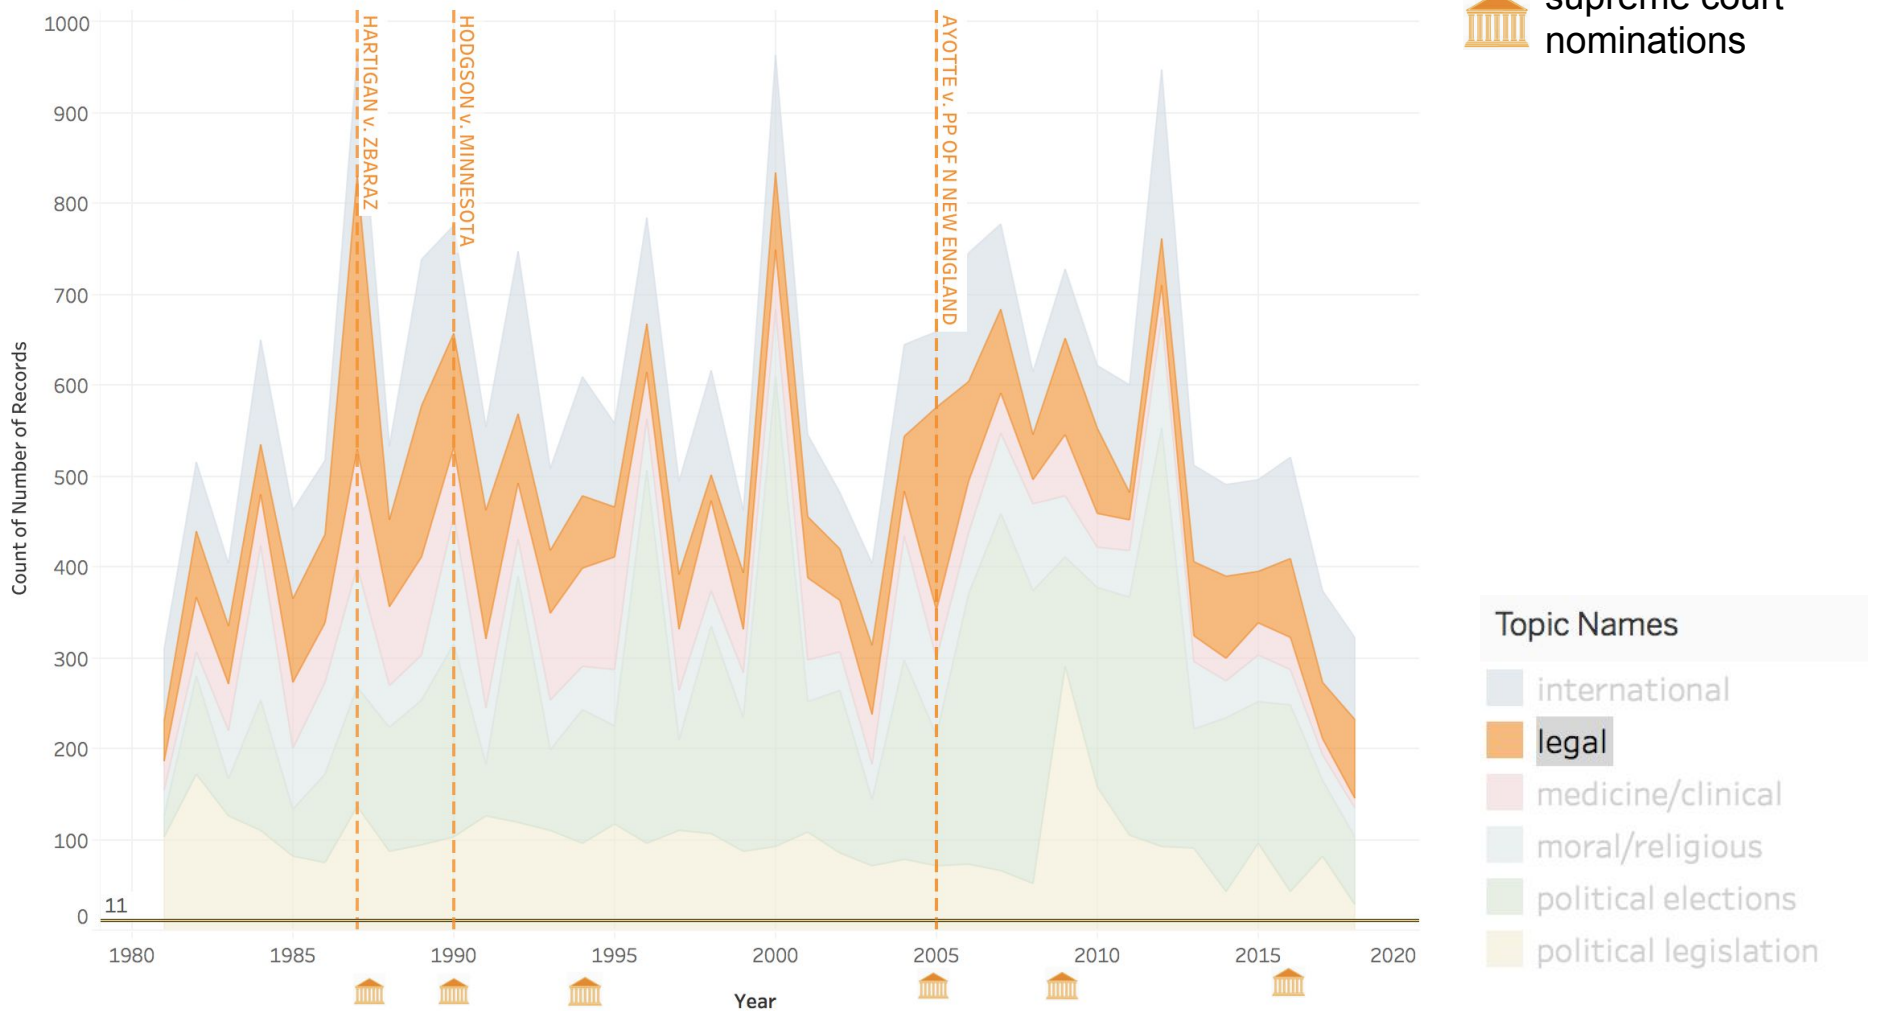

Topic Names

- international
- legal
- medicine/clinical
- moral/religious
- political elections
- political legislation

Abortion Topics Over Time

 supreme court nominations

opinion

opinion

9/11

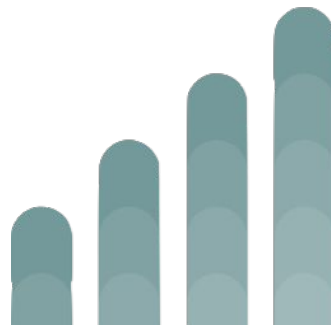

Looking Forward

Potential for Education?

~~Recommender~~

Reading List

- Focus on the subject
- NLTK: named entities (William who?)

Thank you!

Any questions?

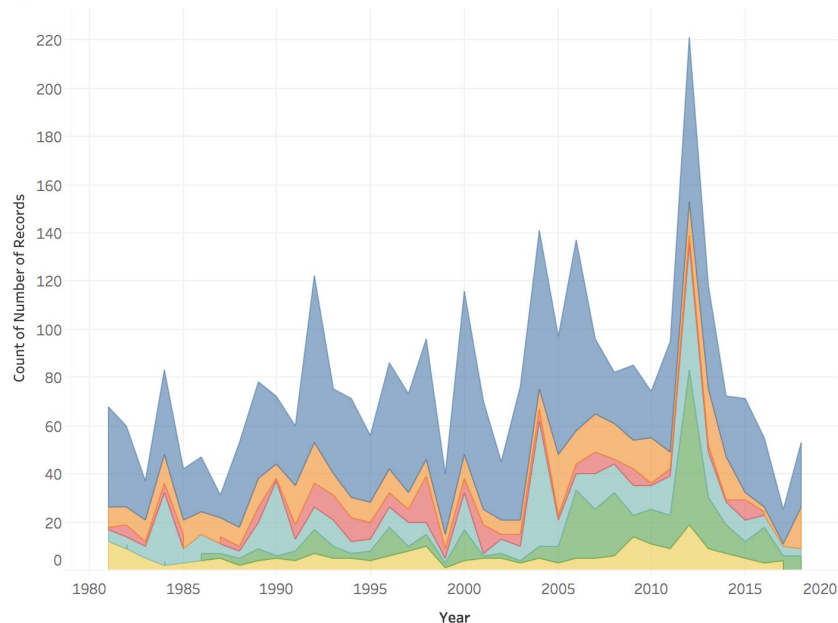

Appendix

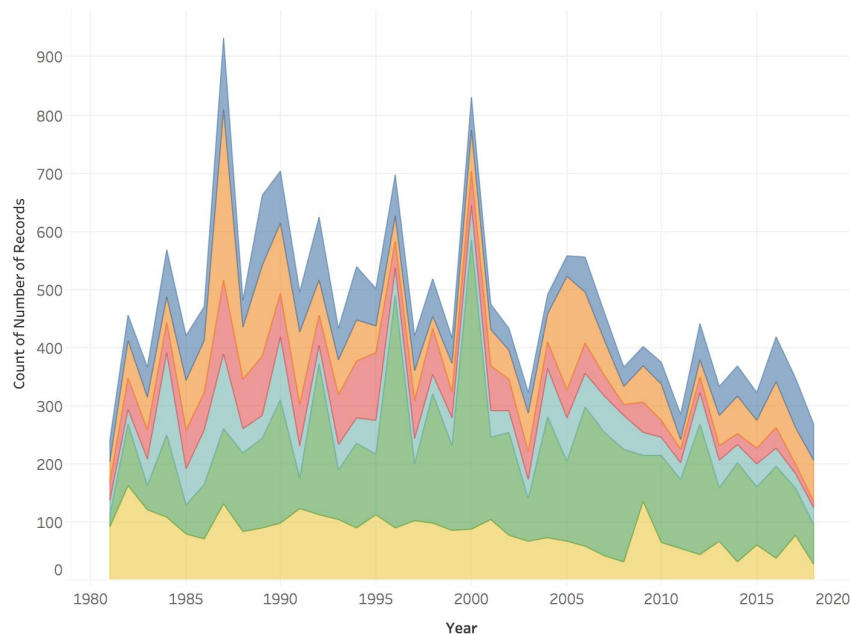

NYT: Editorial vs Opinion

- Topic Names
- international
 - legal
 - medicine/clinical
 - moral/religious
 - political elections
 - political legislation

Opinion on Abortion over time

Editorial Abortion over Time NYT

Reading List MVP

POLITICIANS FACE BISHOPS' CENSURE IN ABORTION RIFT

LALWEE GOODSTEIN

The nation's Roman Catholic bishops approved a statement on Friday on "Catholics in Political Life" that brands politicians who support abortion rights as "cooperating in evil" and leaves the door open for bishops to deny communion to such lawmakers.

The bishops, meeting outside Denver, stopped short of saying that those lawmakers should be forbidden to take communion. But they reminded all Catholics that they were not worthy to receive communion until they had examined their consciences, including their "fidelity to the moral teaching of the church in personal and public life."

The bishops also asserted unequivocally that "the Catholic community and Catholic institutions" should not give "awards, honors or platforms" to Catholics who "act in defiance of our fundamental moral principles."

This means that Catholic universities, for example, may not give honorary degrees or speaking invitations to politicians who have a record of supporting abortion. Some Catholic universities already have such bans, but many do not. Senator John Kerry, the presumptive Democratic nominee for

3D PCA VIZ w/ Plotly

